EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

This Bill seeks to amend the Property Tax Act (Cap. 254).

Clause 1 relates to the short title and commencement.

Clause 2 amends section 2 (Interpretation) to add that, in assessing the annual value of a property, machinery on the property that is intended to be used (and not just used) for a purpose mentioned in subsection (2)(a) to (c) is also to be disregarded. The clause further adds a new subsection (2AA) that certain machinery is to be considered in assessing the annual value of the property. This includes machinery —

- (a) that provides the setting or environment for the carrying out of necessary work or business on the premises; and whose purpose includes the provision of heating, cooling, ventilation or lighting in the premises, and for the controlling, maintaining or modifying of the temperature, atmospheric pressure, humidity or air quality in the premises; or
- (b) for the storage of articles.

Clause 3 amends clause 56 (Penalty for obstructing Comptroller, etc., in carrying out his duties) to increase the maximum punishment from a fine of $2,000 or imprisonment for a term not exceeding 3 months or both, to a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or both for hindering or obstructing the Comptroller of Property Tax (Comptroller), the Chief Assessor, a member of the Street and Building Names Board or any other person employed in the administration of the Act in the performance of his or her duty under the Act. This is aligned to the maximum punishment under section 66 of the Goods and Services Tax Act (Cap. 117A).

Clause 4 amends section 64 (Power to enter upon lands for purposes of this Act) to remove references to the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or any officer authorised by either of them. Their powers are now stipulated in a new section 64A.

Clause 5 inserts a new section 64A (Power of Comptroller, etc., to obtain information and furnishing of information) —

- (a) to enable the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or an authorised officer to have full and free access to any premises, documents, computer or computer software (including any code to unscramble encrypted data in the computer), and to take extracts from or possession of any computer or computer software;
- (b) to enable the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or an authorised officer, when exercising any of his or her powers on any premises under section 64A, to require a person on those premises to answer questions or to produce documents for inspection;
- (c) to enable the Comptroller or the Chief Assessor to give notice to a person to attend before the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or an authorised officer to answer questions or produce documents for inspection;
- (d) to criminalise the failure to comply with a notice or requirement of the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or an authorised officer given in exercise of his or her powers under section 64A, or to provide information in response to a demand of the Comptroller, the Chief Assessor or an authorised officer when in attendance pursuant to a notice under paragraph (c); and
- (e) to criminalise the giving of false information in response to a notice, requirement or demand mentioned in paragraph (d).

These amendments are broadly similar to the amendments made to sections 65B and 65C of the Income Tax Act (Cap. 134) and section 84 of the Goods and Services Tax Act and are for the same purposes.

Clause 6 amends section 65 (Receipts, notices, etc., may be given by authorised officer) to remove the requirement for a person's consent to be served with a notice, order or document through the electronic service before such service is deemed to be sufficiently authenticated.

Clause 7 amends section 66 (Electronic service) to make provision for the service by the Comptroller or the Chief Assessor on a person of any notice, order or document through the electronic service. In particular, the amendments to section 66 permit regulations to be made to provide for an "opt-out" scheme for such service under which a person who is notified by the Comptroller or the Chief Assessor that any document will be served on the person through the electronic service will be so served unless the person notifies the Comptroller or the Chief Assessor that he does not wish to be so served.

Clause 8 makes consequential amendments to section 67 (Service of notices) as a result of the amendments to section 66 vide clause 7.
